DAVIS' TANGENTS IN FIERY SPEECH

Candidate Tells His Ideas of Presidency.

not be permitted to divert the attention of the public from the vital question now before them. I venture, therefore, to express the hope that the members of the Republican party will be at least as explicit in their declaration of policy as to the removal of the tariff from the field of political debate.

ATTACK ON G. O. P.

In Mr. Davis' prepared address, he said: "This is my second appearance at this place. My first visit here was on July 7, twelve years ago. I was one of a party of two hundred persons who, under the leadership of the late Mr. J. W. Davis, came to the station to the governor's home at Seneca. We were calling on a governor of New Jersey who had received the Democratic nomination for the presidency. As we stepped back to the waiting train a colleague said, 'What does this mean? What does this mean? What does this mean?'

"I recall how quickly this leadership asserted itself. Congressmen and senators were present. The first act in the drama was the securing from the capital of the books of lobbyists, hangers-on, seekers for privileges and representatives of special interests who had infested its corridors.

"Then came in quick succession the Federal Reserve Act, for which the country had waited half a century; the Federal Trade Commission and the Clayton Act curbing monopolies and establishing the rights of labor.

"Contrast of Big Parties. "Mr. Davis recounted President Wilson's record during the world war and after, and went on: "We stand at the threshold of another presidential campaign and the American people are called on once more to decide whether they will leave their destinies in charge of those who are now in power or give them over to other hands. Do they want a change or do they not? That is the question upon which all popular elections turn.

"When we paint against the vivid background of the eight years under Wilson the history that has been unraveled since March 4, 1913, there are, to say the least, some startling contrasts. In 1913 the lobby was scourged from Washington. In 1921, the lobbyist was welcomed back to the White House. In 1913, the Little Green House in the White House was set up for sinister purposes, but partly disclosed. Its occupants and their friends soon proved that they lacked neither malice nor appetite.

First of the Biggest Scandals.

"First of the biggest scandals. At the head of the bureaucratic rot the secretary of the interior. Within ninety days after he took office the naval oil reserves had been transferred to the general land office and the dealing began. The policy of conservation, for which President Roosevelt and Wilson had fought so valiantly, was thrown to the winds and within less than twelve months, in secret and without public warning of any sort, all the oil reserves upon which the navy depended passed into private hands.

"Thus, of 24,000,000 barrels of oil which the Teapot Dome was estimated to contain, only about 1,000,000 barrels will become the property of the government. In case of emergency or threatened danger the country will have only the doubtful privilege of buying back from the interested parties, at their own prices, the oil which once it owned.

FOR VETERANS' BUREAU

"And after all, the veterans, for whose care in one form or another the enormous total of $450,000,000 was provided to be spent, a sum half as much again as the budget of either the war department or the navy, and thirty times the carrying cost of the department of state.

"There was a rare field for enterprise. A year and a half after Congress had appropriated $12,000,000 for building purposes, only $600,000 had been added to the bureau's equipment, and those in a hospital purchased ready made.

"But a friend of Director Forbes meantime, had paid $17,000 for a hospital site and sold it to the government on the same day for $100,000. The $100,000 had been paid to an architect who designed a building so poor that it was never built.

"We may be pardoned for asking whether it was common sense to sell 50 cents on the dollar more than $1,000,000 worth of wounded men were waiting, while at the very time there were being bought to take their place at five times that price.

COOLIDGE HAS NOTHING TO SAY ABOUT DAVIS OR KLAN, SLEMP SAYS

Princeton, N. J., Aug. 25.—(Special.)—Coolidge, secretary to President Coolidge, submitted to the President tonight John W. Davis' statement denouncing the Klan and his appeal to President Coolidge to join him in an effort to remove the Klan from this country. Mr. Slemp later announced Mr. Coolidge had nothing to say in reply to Mr. Davis.

ture, when they will be tried. We are invited to believe that there is no difference between them and a man who has been caught at night taking change from the cash drawer.

"Those at whose door these charges were laid were not more understanding. They were reasonable officers of a great political party. But by it in place of high power. They were but one removed from the head of that party, and they were not to be deceived. They do not justly be called upon to review the record of that party is reviewed.

"We Democrats are making and we make no compromise of principle. We shall speak with the frankness of any occupant of the presidential chair, whether living or dead. I am glad to believe that the high office has never been unworthily held. We have, however, the President's own authority for the statement that 'the only practical way to secure responsible political action is by the formation of parties.'

"Honesty for Responsibility. "We agree, and assert further, that the only way to secure good government is to hold political parties responsible. I think I detect in some quarters a hope that without change of name or much of personnel a reorganization of a certain political party can be effected, taking over any discovered assets and repudiating all unpleasant liabilities. My experience as a lawyer has taught me that creditors are rarely satisfied with this convenient method of cancelling their claims. The American people can hardly be expected to accept it.

"If the fact is that the public record has been squandered, it is any answer to say that a budget system has been installed. If unfit and corrupt men have been put in and kept in office and left to their own devices, it is a sufficient defense that the administration was not actually dishonest? If the wounded veteran has been deceived of the care that was his due, is there any comfort to him in the fact that congress made lavish appropriations?

KIPS INTO THE TARIFF

"The tariff afforded an opening to the hosts of privilege for an assault less direct but far more devastating to the public pocketbook. We are told that America in 1913 was threatened from abroad by an 'impending avalanche of suddenly cheapened merchandise from which it was narrowly saved by the beneficent action of the Fordney-McCumber tariff.

"In view of the bitter struggle that the exhausted people of Europe have waged since the war in rebuilding enough of their shattered commerce to provide their daily bread, is there not some reason to be pictured in the ready to overrun the markets of the world?

"Let me give you two or three illustrations of what a high protective tariff means when he talks of a commercial avalanche. Under a Democratic tariff, sewing machines, necessary in every home, were on the free list and we were importing scarcely 1 per cent of the value of our domestic production. This was an avalanche, however, not to be feared, for the existing rate of 23.1 per cent was imposed to check it.

"Protecting Aluminum Trade. "Of aluminum kitchen ware, now in such universal use, we were importing less than 1 per cent of the amount which we consumed. Such an avalanche accordingly was permanently barred by taxing the domestic product three times the existing rate.

"In rubber footwear our imports were too small to be worth reporting, but the duty nevertheless was raised to 10 per cent, and our imports were less than 1 per cent of the domestic production, so the rates of duty were increased by 80 per cent.

"Truly a Republican protectionist's avalanche is a fearful thing to witness, even from afar! "In the realm of foreign affairs the contrast between the past and present is more striking still.

"Abandoned Foreign Policy. "There was a day when America sat in the councils of the nations, occupying at their table the seat of honor and of dignity that was her right. There was a day when she made covenants and engagements in her own name and was not content to be merely the beneficiary of the effort and good will of others.

"Today apparently she has no other program than to 'encourage American citizens and resources to assist in restoring Europe with the sympathetic support—but nothing more—of our government.' "It is a far cry to this from the position of Theodore Roosevelt when he said to be a good faith to play a great part in the world."

"As an American, I was gratified by the fact that American citizens have had their share in the latest effort to solve the economic difficulties of Europe. Every man of good will must hope that the Davis report points the way to better days not only for our neighbors across the seas but for ourselves at home.

NEEDS EDUCATOR NAMED HEAD OF TRADE LEAGUE

Colored Business Men Honor Tuskegee Chief.

Dr. Robert Russa Moton, principal of Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., was selected president of the National Negro Business League, which closed its twenty-fifth annual session at the Wendell Phillips High school 39th and Prairie avenues, yesterday. J. C. Napier, Nashville, Tenn., former registrar of the United States treasury, was elected vice president.

The morning session was given over to the discussion of problems confronting the Negro business community. Victor Tulane, Montgomery, Ala., spoke on the large amount of real estate owned by Negroes, and Bryant A. Hammond of Chicago asserted the Negro had almost doubled his property holdings within the last year and was working toward a better record for the future.

Some of the points in which the Republican and Democratic parties differ are already clear. They will become plainer still as this campaign proceeds. "They think that when the public resources have been squandered and laid away a lawsuit to recover them, 'if illegally acquired,' is sufficient amends. We would rather keep the public domain than sue for its recovery.

"They outwardly deplore special privilege, except in the sacred rules of a protective tariff. We oppose it in this and every other form. "They believe, or profess to believe, that agriculture should be on an economic basis with other industries. They have no plans to this end but the appointment of a committee to investigate and advise that the former provide himself with leaders not interested in politics. We think that the first step in economic equality is to deprive others of their unjust advantages.

"They are content to conduct the foreign affairs of the United States through private channels, unofficially, and without the sanction of the government. We think America is great enough to speak in her own name. "They propose now, after nearly four years of absolute inaction, to enroll the United States as a member of the court of international justice. We promise to do so as soon as power is in our hands.

"No Harmony in G. O. P. "They present a party made up of a President facing in one direction, a congress in another, and the rank and file scattered in between. We have a harmonious army, officers and privates, marching to a common end. "In view of the record of the last three years they pray, not without reason, for a standing army of common sense. We stand for one of common honesty.

"What is honesty in government? Honesty in the handling of the public funds and the public property, of course. But it is something more. It is candor and fair dealing and impartiality and the protection of the public interest in the open, in broad daylight, without disguise or pretense or evasion.

"It is the playing of no favorites, whether in making public contracts or in writing public laws. It is the treating of all classes and all sections of the country on an equal basis. "It is the avoidance of secrecy and whispering and snare practices in the management of public affairs. Men love darkness rather than light only when their deeds are evil. Whether in Washington or out of it, we will have no secret advisers in our party council, no alliance with any of those who work in secret for secret ends.

"SHOWMAN AS FANDED. "Thomas Mack, a self-styled showman, was fined $500 and sentenced to six months in prison for a charge of passing counterfeit money. Police testified that Mack took $100,000 in counterfeit money from a safe in 4111 Grand boulevard.

"MEN and women who can devote an hour or two a day working for us can easily earn $100.00 per week. We want the part time services of shop foremen, floor managers, school teachers, nurses, housewives, salesmen and others who have an hour or so of leisure time daily.

Men's Fashions

BY A. T. GALLICO

Wide Belt for Wide Trousers.
NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—That one thing leads to another is never so true as in the case of style. When wide trousers came into vogue in this country, it meant the increased popularity of wide brimmed straw hats which were worn in keeping with the trousers. Here is another matter for which the wide trousers are responsible. Wide belts are now to be had, which are of a width that will fit into the wide loops that these trousers carry. This belt is about an inch and a half wide. The wide belts are popular for wear with the wide sport trousers. The belt illustrated is one of the leather variety, which may be had in black, oxblood, brown, or light tan. It has a tongue buckle.

Wider belts in the striped silk are also at the disposal of men who wear the trousers with wide loops. Those that we have seen are leather lined, with brass buckle.

Fashions

All you who have asked us for advice upon what to wear with a single suit, sit up and take notice. We saw one smart dresser wear the following combination with such a suit: Blue and white striped, longline shirt, with soft attached collar to match. The tie was blue and gray striped, the hat band the same. He wore black shoes and a blue mixture light weight wool pair of socks.

Here is what another well dressed man wore with a light gray suit. A black and white striped silk shirt, similar to the blue one mentioned above, and a yellow and gray striped tie. His hat was a pearl gray felt.

Clyde was no sick that the doctor had to call, and a neighbor asked Grace what was the matter with her brother.

She replied, "Eating too young apples."

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON

Grape Juices

There is science in putting up grape juice, whether fermented or unfermented. It is no business for a nervous woman to undertake unless she has been well disciplined in the whole business of sterilizing or pasteurizing. She can obtain free long dissertations on the subject of making grape juice, and on pasteurizing fruit juices, by writing to the home economics division of the United States department of agriculture. But when the literature they have is in great demand, perhaps they will not get all the best they have. Because printed things do get used up and new supplies are not always promptly obtainable.

It is hardly safe to give brief summaries of how to pasteurize. You must know every detail. It is not the nice preparation and cooking of the grapes that matters so much, although nice and exact work all the way along the line will improve the product, but the finest product in the world if put into unsterile bottles and imperfectly pasteurized and sealed will not keep. And the warmer the weather when it is put up the shorter the time it will keep.

Concord grapes cooked in water to cover and drained and pasteurized will make a fairly good grape juice, and a better one if the juice is filtered. In making green grape juice the contents seem to be that it is best merely to wash the fruit and add no water when they are cooked till they burst. After that drain and process. Of course, grape juice is likely to keep better if it contains sugar and it can be put up as a thick slush with as much sugar as juice. Some think that inverted bottles helps to preserve the juice.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

REAR SWIMMING IS AN EXCELLENT exercise. I know of none better, as you have to breathe correctly and to the fullest lung capacity, and you bring into motion almost every muscle of the body. At this time of year it is down to the open air and one comes to class it with amusement rather than exercise, and something that must be done. You are fortunate in being located so closely to a good bathing beach. You will be able to swim daily and soon realize its benefits.

THIRTEEN DRINKING TOO MUCH water overworks the kidneys and overburdens the stomach and heart. Twelve glasses a day are too many. I would advise cutting it down to eight. The blood needs a continuous supply of water, and if it does not get it will absorb water from the colon or other tissues thus taking in poisons and leaving the bowels dry.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Trying to Get Well.

Has any one an old friend or piece of crockery or coat to give away? I am a widow and have just come back from the hospital and the doctors tell me I must be outdoors as much as possible, but the nights and even the days are cool, and I have no work. The children are too small to work and we are having a hard time to make ends meet.

Mrs. F. J.

Long for Violin.

I am a widow with two daughters, one 23 years old, who has been in a hospital for 3 years, and the other a girl of 16, who dearly loves music. I have long been my wish to give her a violin as she is eager to learn to play, but I can never afford to buy one. Is there any one kind enough to give her one?

WILL MOORE TO PLAY HELEN AND VINNY FOR TITLE

Brooklyn, N.Y., Aug. 22.—(Special.)—Mrs. Helen B. Moore and William T. Moore II will defend their national mixed doubles title tomorrow against Miss Helen Williams and Vincent J. Williams. In the semi-finals today at the Longwood Cricket club, Mrs. Moore and Tilden defeated Mrs. George W. Wightman and Jean B. B. Wightman of Boston and Jean B. Wightman and Richard of New York and Miss Helen B. Moore of New York and Rene La Coite of France, 6-7, 6-2.

Moore was the hero of the day. The double Frenchman electrified the gallery with his play, covering a tremendous amount of territory and scoring on shots of the wildest daring.

Mrs. Wightman played far inferior tennis to what she is capable of and her partner took it upon himself to carry the whole court most of the time, counting parallel to the line to score.

The English that the French star got when his shots were the last word in sharpness, even on his overhand strokes, made in the air. Tilden was equally keen on his side of the net, his service and ground strokes going over the barrier like flashes of lightning.

Easy for Helen and Vinny. Miss Williams and La Coite, in a stomach, that was entirely lacking in either or spirited play. La Coite couldn't get started, while Richards kept everything away at sharp angles.

The national veterans' doubles title was won by Walter L. Rife and Sam Hardy of New York. They defeated G. A. Lyon and R. J. Davis of Providence, R. I., in the final, a closely fought match, 6-3, 6-4, 10-8.

JOHN BLACK, OTHERS ENTER WESTERN OPEN

Earlier Chicago. How many old timers do you suppose know what became of the "stone man" which for years stood in front of Hannah & Hogg's across from the city hall and next door to Hogg's theater, later called Poyner's?

Well, I found him here today in Temple, Tex., majestically standing in the yard of H. H. Empson, former resident of Chicago, who happened into Hannah & Hogg's in the closing days of the wet period. In a local sort of way he asked what he would take for the stone man.

He first placed it in his front yard, and all the Negroes would cross to the other side of the street. It is now standing beside his garage in the rear. He has been offered many times for it by several Scotch families who want to place it on their family lots in the cemetery, but he refuses to part with it.

Reading about the old fashioned water coming back, why not also the old fashioned music such as "Merry Widow" and "The Blue Bird" which were used in the old days? "The Blue Bird" was the old opera house, "The Merry Widow" was the old opera house.

Many players will begin practice over the course next week. A number of heavy clubs will extend the privileges of their courses for practice a few days before the meet.

Interclub Meet. Tomorrow, which has been in the lead in the South Side Interclub Golf tournament for some time, topped the field yesterday at Olympia with 104 points and still retained first place.

BRITISH FOUR HOLDS PRACTICE

Westbury, N. Y., Aug. 22.—The British polo team, challengers for the international cup, had its first practice today and won a match against a picked American team, 11 to 4.

The invaders played brilliant polo throughout the eight chukkers of competition, their riding skill and their judgment of speed and distance being a decided contrast to the rugged play of the American four.

CHARLEY PADDOCK TO RUN LAST RACE TODAY?

New York, Aug. 22.—Charley Paddock, famous auto sprinter, who lost the Olympic 200 meter championship to Jackson Scholtz this year, by the proverbial eyelash, probably will make his farewell appearance on an eastern track tomorrow, when he is slated to try for a new world record at 200 yards in a special race held in connection with the senior metropolitan track and field championships.

Paddock, who staged a comeback to make the Olympic team, expects to return to Los Angeles shortly and has told friends he intends to hang up his spurs after tomorrow. Tomorrow he will attempt to lower a mark that has been established because little slugs have been slow.

One way to figure the value of slugs is on the basis of a yard sale, assuming that three tons of slugs is thought worth as much as one ton of hay. An other method is to figure the value on the basis of the cost of corn plus the cost of putting it into the silo. A tabulation of figures showing the cost of slugs per acre and per ton have been worked out by men at the University of Minnesota. Their calculations show that it costs between $13 and $34 an acre for slugs, or nearly $4 a ton when the yield is seven tons to the acre.

The cost figures were worked out by farmers that had put a total of $3,000 acre of corn into silos, averaging 30 tons each; corn at 45 cents a bushel and average December price for five years in Minnesota, less 3 cents a bushel for hauling. Costs that entered in putting up a ton of slugs are: Man labor and horse labor in cutting and filling, 38 cents; twine, 7 cents; machinery and power, 61 cents; also charge, 50 cents, and corn $2.60.

CHICAGOAN IS RENAMED HEAD OF YACHT BODY. Figure 1

A dark, grainy photograph of a metal surface, possibly a door or wall. On the right side, there are some faint, illegible markings or graffiti that appear to be written in a light-colored paint or chalk. The overall image is very dark and has a high level of contrast, making it difficult to discern specific details.

This image is a dark, grainy, black and white scan, likely of a document page. It features a prominent horizontal band of lighter, textured material across the middle, which could be a fold in the paper or a scanning artifact. The overall appearance is noisy and lacks clear text or identifiable figures.

This image shows a vertical strip of a book's endpaper or flyleaf. The left side of the strip is dark and textured, while the right side is lighter and also textured. There is a faint, vertical line of text or a watermark running down the center of the strip, which is mostly illegible due to the low resolution and the way the strip was cut. The overall appearance is that of a close-up of a book's internal structure.
